

Summer Sunglasses - Looking Ahead!

Can you believe this is the end of the school year?! For your last project, you will design a pair of sunglasses that show a reflection of everything you plan to (or hope to!) do this summer!

To begin, plan out the shape of your sunglasses. There are a few options below you can use as a guide:

Activity

- Start by drawing the outline of your sunglasses in pencil, then outline with a black marker or sharpie.
- Using your pencil, draw small images of things you want to do this summer in the lenses - they can be symbols that represent activities, ex. A beach umbrella for the beach, a campfire for camping, a bike to represent bike riding!
- Outline and color in your small images with whatever supplies you have!
- Using a colored pencil or crayon, shade with grey or black around your small images.
- Decorate your paper any other way you want to, have fun with it! You can add the date, the year, or a fun saying like "Hello Summer!"

I am so proud of you for staying creative during this time of distance learning, and I have truly enjoyed seeing all your art projects in my email inbox each day! Keep it up over the summer, and I can't WAIT to see you in the fall!

Have a good summer!
